HARLEM GLOBETROTTER MAKES TWO EPIC ROOF TOP TRICK SHOTS ATOP PEROT MUSEUM IN DOWNTOWN DALLAS

Dallas (Oct. 17, 2018) – To prepare for their new tour coming to Dallas, the Harlem Globetrotters demonstrated acts of science at the “highest” level when Zeus McClurkin made two trick shots from the roof of the Perot Museum of Nature and Science in downtown Dallas. Showing off a principle called the Magnus Effect, Zeus spun a basketball on his finger and shot a “curve ball” from nearly 200 feet up – hitting nothing but net in a hoop below.

The video was released today and is available via the hyperlinks below. The footage and accompanying music are approved for media (courtesy Harlem Globetrotters).

As a two-time Guinness World Record holder, Zeus was joined by Cindy Hua, one of the “Brainiac” science educators from the Perot Museum. Cindy took Zeus through the concept of the “Magus Effect” and how a spin of the ball will affect his shot.

The Globetrotters will bring their new Fan Powered World Tour to Dallas and Frisco over Thanksgiving Weekend. The world famous team will play the Dr Pepper Arena on Friday, Nov. 23 at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Plus, two more games at American Airlines Center on Saturday, Nov. 24 a 1 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 25 at 2 p.m. Tickets are available at HarlemGlobetrotters.com.
